FAQs – Résumé-Writing

— I don't have any experience; how do I fix that on my résumé?

As a student, part of your experience may be gained from student activities/clubs, academic projects and volunteer efforts. Join organizations and volunteer to begin to build experiences that can demonstrate communication skills, teamwork, leadership and project management.

— Can a résumé be more than one page?

The JSOM standard is one page. Remember, a resume is a summary of your experience to prompt the interest of potential employers to give you an interview. For MBAs with extensive professional experience related to the job being sought, an additional page may be warranted.

— Should I include high school or other school's activities on my résumé?

College résumés drop the high school information. It is assumed that your professional experience begins at college.

— Should I include jobs that I have had that don't relate to the job I'm seeking?

for which you are applying, the stronger your application will be.

— Why do I have to use the JSOM Résumé format?

The JSOM résumé format was developed with our employer partners, and it is well received by employers. In short, this format works! In addition, the format has been optimized to be compatible with applicant tracking systems, which almost all companies use to recruit applicants for positions. Lastly, the JSOM format is part of the UTD brand. Employers know that you are from UTD by the look and feel of your résumé.

FAQs – Cover Letters

— Should I include references with my cover letter?

No, references are provided when the company requests them of a candidate.

— How long should my letter be?

One page only.

— What is everything I should include in a cover letter?

How did you hear about the job, how do you meet the requirements of the job, how does your experience relate to this position, and why are you interested in the job? Keep the tone of your letter optimistic and show your motivation to excel.

— Can I make a template of my cover letter and send it with my résumé since the types of positions to which I am applying are very similar?

— Why is a cover letter necessary?

A cover letter should always be sent with your résumé. The cover letter tells the employer why you want to work for the company and tailors your experience to the position for which you are applying. In addition, you are telling a little about who you are as a candidate, which is different from what is on your résumé.
