Employer & Job Approvals

We have institutional guidelines for approving companies and individual job posting. The University Career Center at UT Dallas is a member of the National Association of Colleges and Employers \(NACE\).

We strongly encourage employers to compensate interns. Interns add significant value to your organization and a paid internship may also create a more competitive applicant pool. Companies posting unpaid internships must make it clear the position is unpaid and are encouraged to review the NACE position statement on U.S. internships and compensation and the criteria put forth by the U.S. Department of Labor \(DOL\). Please see the best practices below to ensure your requests are not delayed.

Guidelines for Hosting Unpaid Internships (Nonprofit Organizations)

At the University Career Center, we recognize the valuable experiential learning opportunities nonprofit organizations provide to our students. While students may participate in unpaid internships, these arrangements must adhere to specific guidelines to ensure the opportunity is educational, relevant, and in compliance with university and federal policies.

Important Considerations

- Interns should not be used as substitutes for paid staff or volunteers, nor should they be assigned menial or purely administrative tasks that do not contribute to their learning.
- Unpaid internships must comply with the U.S. Department of Labor's guidelines under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), especially for for-profit organizations (nonprofits are exempt from certain FLSA criteria but still must ensure the experience is primarily educational).
- International students on F-1 visas must have CPT authorization and be enrolled in an internship course to participate in any internship, including unpaid ones.
- Participating in internship (paid or unpaid) without proper authorization is a violation of visa regulations and may result in the termination of the student's visa status.

Eligibility Requirements for Hosting Unpaid Interns

To ensure a compliant and meaningful internship experience, the following conditions must be met:

Educational Relevance

Academic Credit Requirement

Minimum Hour Commitment

Please contact the University Career Center Employer Relations team at recruit@utdallas.edu if you have questions or need support designing an internship that meets these guidelines.
